Mick McHugh is an Irish/Australian singer-songwriter, musician and founder of the hugely successful Irish band 'The Gathering'. A hard working gigging musician, McHugh took no short cuts on his career to becoming a professional musician. Mick is known for creating an engaging and inclusive atmosphere with audiences at his live performances.

Leaning on the rich musical tapestry of his birthplace, the Irish singer-songwriter taught himself to play guitar at age 22, leaving his Engineering career behind. He has honed his skills every step of the way playing thousands of shows - from the local pub to Byron Bluesfest to The Sydney Opera House, national and international touring, supports for iconic acts Amy Shark, Ralph McTell (Streets of London), songwriting with Shane Howard (Goanna Band) and a slew of studio and live releases along the way.
